

A73

Contractor: Dutch Ministry of Public Works and Road Management

The new A73 highway in the south-east part of Holland is not only a road, it is an integral design. All fly-over's are the same design.

To explain the design and also the way a fly-over is constructed a 4D presentation was produced for the Dutch Ministry of Public Works and Road Management, based on their own story-board. The 3D model builds up in time steps (the fourth D) controlled by a time line, while an animated camera's moves to the current subject. The model also has alternatives for weather, time-of-day, trees and hedges switchable by the presenter.
